An experienced leader ready to ensure the succession plan of a Canadian business.

Rym Leulmi is an engineer by training and holds an MBA from HEC Montréal.

After more than 15 years leading manufacturing, industrial, and airport operations, she is looking to become the next successor of a great Canadian business and help it thrive for generations to come.

She believes a business is more than its financial results—it is the people who built it, the customers who trust it, and the culture and values that have shaped its success.

Having led four manufacturing facilities across Canada, managed multi-site teams, and guided organizations through growth and operational transformation, she brings the leadership experience, respect, and long-term commitment needed to continue the story of a great Canadian business.
